KEEP COOL WITH THE DISNEY CHANNEL

Cool off in August the wet, wild way...surfing, sailing, soaring the skies and roaming the oceans...all from the comfort of your easy chair!

Plunge through the portals of time to the Victorian world of Jules Verne. There you'll journey "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," on a submarine expedition where danger lurks amid the awesome grandeur of the deep. You'll escape a fearsome giant squid, only to surface for more excitement on a mysterious desert island. "20,000 Leagues" was filmed five fathoms under the Caribbean sea off the coast of Jamaica, and netted Academy Awards for its special effects and art direction.

Cast off with "The Boatniks" and head for hilarity! Join an earnest young ensign on Coast Guard patrol as he takes after three bumbling beach bandits who are trying to "beat the heat." The heist is a cool million in hot jewelry, and the chase is hysterical. The result is a water-traffic jam at the busiest small boat harbor in the world.

There's a boatload of chills and spills when you set sail with Warren Miller, king of outdoor sports movies! Young-at-heart Miller is an old hand at turning up wherever the action is — on land, sea or air. He bows on The Disney Channel with exclusive, premiere presentations of two water-racing films, "Hot Yachts, Cold Water" and "Have Windsurfer, Will Travel." Miller has covered sports events and competitions of every imaginable kind, from dune buggies, hot air balloons, catamarans, sail boats, hydrofoils and ice boats, to thoroughbred horse racing, helicopter skiing, shooting-the-rapids and snowmobile racing. There are hundreds of films in his extraordinary library, and you'll see them only on The Disney Channel!

Windsurfer performs aquabatics with the help of a brisk wind.

When the weather gets too warm for workouts, watch MOUSERCISE and cool down with Kellyn. She'll show you how to keep from overheating while burning off calories. You'll also get some safety and nutrition tips from Steve and the gang at the Mickey Mouse Health Club.

One of the chilliest realms on earth lies far beneath the ocean—the last great unconquered frontier. Go along with Bill Burrud on a fascinating deep-water odyssey in NEW!

Capt. Nemo (James Mason) faces terrifying dangers in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

ANIMAL WORLD. You'll explore tropical seas so crystal clear that visibility extends hundreds of feet below the surface. There you'll meet strange, colorful ocean-dwellers in a hidden kingdom of unearthly beauty.

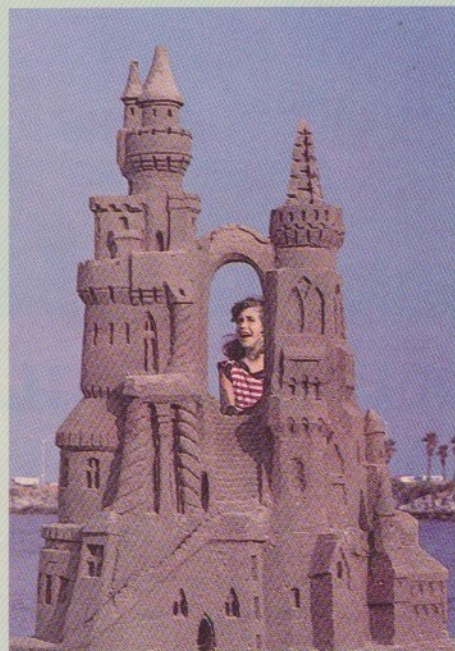

High above the water, gliding amidst the clouds, is "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," winged symbol of all earthbound humans who ever yearned to rise beyond their reach. Based on Richard Bach's mystical best-seller, this feature-length film depicts Jonathan's determination to gain a finer world for himself and his flock. Your spirit will soar with the gull in his quest for love, understanding, achievement and individuality. Enhanced by Neil Diamond's evocative musical score, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" is presented in the form of a nature film of surpassing beauty and strength.

Back on earth you'll find Mickey, Donald and Goofy in a hula dance and other island antics as they take you on a hilarious "Hawaiian Holiday." Then learn "How to Be a Sailor," as Goofy demonstrates his own methods of navigation through the ages. These and other cartoons are comedy highlights of GOOD MORNING, MICKEY!

King-size sand castle fulfills a youngster's dream.

Watch a "wishful thinker" build a dream sand castle in WISH UPON A STAR.

Then set your imagination free and return to Colonial times. Follow Ben Franklin, "The King's Rebel," in a thrilling historical drama of suspense and intrigue. Branded a rebellious hothead, Franklin petitions the king of England and gets a cool reception...which only serves to fuel his fight for America's freedom. This is the second of four episodes portraying Ben's remarkable life!

Cool off with The Disney Channel, and enjoy summer entertainment that will make a splash with your whole family! 🐻

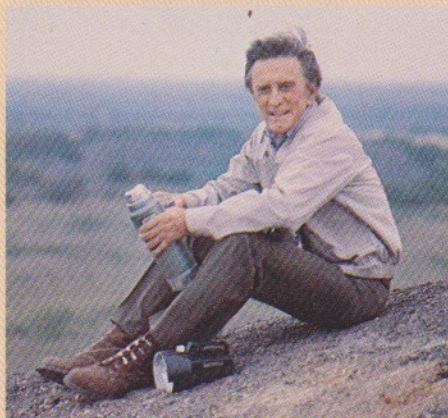

KIRK DOUGLAS: STILL TAKING CHANCES

A couple of years ago Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster indulged themselves in an odd conceit. They went on stage as Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn, meeting after 50 years. It was a chancy venture for the two old pros. Douglas hadn't faced a live audience since 1965, when he did "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" on Broadway, and theater critics are notoriously tough on movie stars returning to the scene of their early crimes. But Douglas is used to taking dares; he's been doing it all his life.

"And it gets easier," he admitted. "I'm at the time of life when I wouldn't find a failure crippling, or a success overly thrilling. But I still get excited about my work."

Happily Douglas and Lancaster played to standing ovations for the length of the run. Then they resumed their everyday occupation of making movies. Douglas, pretty much as usual, headed for distant locations: first Australia, for "The Man from Snowy River"; then Texas, for "Eddie Macon's Run"; then Israel, for "Remembrance of Love." Also pretty much as usual he kicked up controversy along the way. The Aussies, resenting an American actor playing one of their national literary characters, assailed him in print. Political hotbloods in Israel criticized him for visiting hospitals in Jerusalem and going into Lebanon to visit American troops stationed there.

Kirk Douglas relaxes on location.

"I'm not as brave in life as I am in movies," Douglas said, but he still takes on gritty offscreen assignments.

For 20 years Douglas has been a public relations traveler for the government. He's made trips to 45 countries, speaking to university students, government officials and motion picture makers. Last year he toured Afghan refugee camps in Pakistan to focus on the plight of 2.7 million displaced persons. He returned to receive the Medal of Freedom at a White House ceremony for "significant cultural endeavors as an actor and goodwill ambassador." He recently toured China in behalf of the State Department.

"I found Chinese curiosity about America quite extraordinary," he said. "It proved what I've always known, that more people are interested in movies than in politics."

At age 65 and after some 70 films, Douglas still projects the vitality and cockiness that make him a seemingly indestructible star. The distinctive dimple in his chin seems cleft out of granite. Looking back on his screen career that began with "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" in 1945, he said:

"I don't think there's a day in the week when one of the movies I've made isn't playing somewhere on TV. Some of them I'd like to forget. Others I've loved, like 'Lonely are the Brave,' 'Paths of Glory,' 'Lust for Life' and '20,000 Leagues Under the Sea.' I'm proud of them.

"If I like a picture, I'll do it. I don't stop to wonder if it'll be successful or not." ♥

WINNER OF TWO ACADEMY AWARDS

(Kirk Douglas,
James Mason,
Paul Lukas,
Peter Lorre)

Experience the mightiest adventure of them all! Descend into the silent blackness of the undersea world, aboard a fantastic submarine commanded by a madman!

Walt Disney's fabulous film version of Jules Verne's astonishing novel stars Kirk Douglas as the harpooner who is taken miles down, deeper than man has ventured, to observe the magical wonderland of life beneath the sea.

His skipper is Capt. Nemo (James Mason), strange and moody master of the submarine Nautilus. A terrifying threat to sailing vessels in 1868, the Nautilus has been fitted out with mechanical marvels undreamed of at the time.

Capt. Nemo carries his passengers and crew on a voyage around the world. Then, heading for the secret island of Vulcania, Capt. Nemo and Prof. Aronnax leave the submarine Nautilus.

they are attacked first by savage cannibals and next by a formidable giant squid. More dangers lie ahead.

Behind The Scenes Of 20,000 Leagues Under The Sea

Although Jules Verne wrote "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" in 1870, it posed plenty of problems when Walt Disney decided to film it almost a century later.

The first production headache was the submarine Nautilus, a futuristic (for her time) undersea craft disguised to look like a monster of the deep.

She had to run on electricity and atomic power, according to visionary Verne's imagination.

Then came the matter of undersea photography. Disney sent a location troupe of 54 to Nassau where the Bahamian waters were clear, warm, free of haze-making silt, and filled with vivid fish and coral formations. The Disney-designed diving suits for Nautilus crewmen also were true to Verne: self-contained and innovative, even for the 20th century!

But the biggest challenge of all was the giant squid fight, a masterpiece of man-made mayhem. A hundred backstage workers provided lightning, rain, towering seas and hurricane winds which beset the Nautilus crew. The squid itself was two tons of mechanical horror, waving eight 40-foot tentacles and two 50-foot "feelers" that operated with the precision of a fine watch. Working as much as 50 feet from the set, studio technicians could whip a tentacle around a struggling Nautilus crewman as easily as a cowboy lassoing a steer.

Harpooners battle giant squid.

"Kansas: The 34th Star"

(Richard Kiley)

Join our first-nighters at The Disney Channel premiere of DISNEY SALUTES, a dramatic new series of programs about exceptional Americans who changed and shaped the character of our country.

The opening show introduces Richard Kiley in "Kansas: The 34th Star." He plays the head of the Simpson family who came to Kansas Territory in 1854—and survived. Their story reflects the stormy birth and growth of Kansas, U.S.A.

The Simpson saga begins on the Kansas frontier, a barely habitable plain known as The Great American Desert. It progresses, like the state itself, through the savage battles over slavery that led to the Civil War. Later, family mem-

BRISTLEFACE

(Brian Keith, Phillip Alford, Jeff Donnell)

Team up and tag along with the fastest-running, longest-winded, tail-wagging foxhound that ever sniffed a trail!

The rolling, wooded hills of Tennessee in the 1920s set the scene for this engaging canine comedy. Into this idyllic setting comes young Jace Landers (Phillip Alford), an unwanted orphan who is leading a dog's life until he's adopted by a peculiar-looking hound named Bristleface.

Trouble dogs Bristleface like he tracks turtles, and for Jace and his hard-luck hound it's one comic mishap after another. Finally, after ducking a dog-catching sheriff, winning a race against the town's fleetest foxhounds, and skirmishing with a wild mountain lion, Bristleface stages a glorious all-night chase after the legendary quarry known as Cross Fox.

Bristleface (center) lines up for his race against blueblood foxhounds.

An endearing and enormously popular animated superstar, Gumby delighted millions of television watchers from 1955 to 1972. They followed him faithfully in lighthearted moral fables that usually ended with laughter.

Now Gumby and Pokey return in half-hour programs of free and easy fun. Enter their comical world as they take you to regions where talking dinosaurs, moon creatures, blockheads, wood elves and other original oddballs abound.

Gumby is the creation of Art Clokey, who had experimented with clay animation while studying film making at USC in the early 1950s. After graduation, he put the technique to use in TV commercials. Then he carried it a step further with a short film, "Gumbasia."

"A producer at 20th Century-Fox saw it and felt that my clay animation had possibilities as an adventure series for children," Clokey says. "NBC bought the idea, and Gumby made his network TV debut in 1955."

The show was an instant hit, and a year later it went into syndication. For the next 16 years Gumby ruled the video waves. Gumby dolls, toys and related merchandise appeared everywhere. The phenomenon, which has never disappeared, is called Gumby-Mania.

There are 33 episodes of Gumby, Pokey and their pals. Gumby's voice was provided by actor Dallas McKennon. Art Clokey's voice, speeded up on tape, went to Pokey.

Last year Clokey and his wife Gloria made a coast-to-coast personal appearance tour, entertaining throngs of Gumbyites at every stop.

"They were mostly 16- to 24-year-olds," Clokey says. "Now that Gumby's back on The Disney Channel, he'll find a whole new generation of fans!"

Make Mine Music!

(Animated Classic)

Peter leads Sasha the Bird, Sonia the Duck and Ivan the Cat on a wolf hunt.

Pick your favorite from this lilting, lighthearted animated musical! Presented in 10 fun-and-fantasy numbers, it features the voices of stellar entertainers.

Sterling Holloway narrates Prokofieff's orchestral fable, "Peter and the Wolf." The Pied Pipers sing "All the Cats Join In" to Benny Goodman's band, and the Goodman Quartet delivers "After You've Gone."

Lichine and Riabouchinska dance "Two Silhouettes," with Dinah Shore as vocalist. Nelson Eddy sings "The Whale Who Wanted to Sing at the Met." Jerry Colonna recites "Casey at the Bat," and the Andrews Sisters harmonize in "Johnny Fedora and Alice Blue Bonnet."

The King's Men sing the musical story of "The Martins and the Coys." Andy Russell renders a ballad in blue, "Without You." And the Ken Darby Chorus tops it all off with "Blue Bayou."

Enjoy 75 non-stop minutes of tip-top musical entertainment!

Jonathan Livingston Seagull

(James Franciscus, Juliet Mills, Hal Holbrook)

Soar with the free-flying, free-thinking Jonathan Livingston Seagull, who dared to be different by being himself!

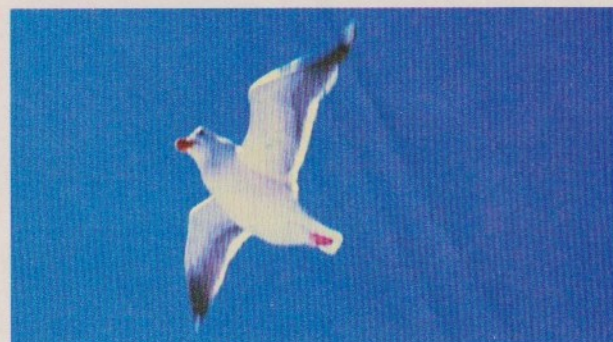

Superb nature photography, an evocative musical score by Neil Diamond and the vocal talents of James Franciscus, Juliet Mills and Hal Holbrook enhance this movie version of Richard Bach's best-seller. Bach himself wrote the screenplay about an idealistic seagull who tries to inspire his flock to a higher, finer way of life.

Critic Michael Korda

praises "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" as "a parable couched in the form of a nature film of overpowering beauty and strength."

EXCLUSIVE NEW SPORTS MOVIE!

"HOT YACHTS, COLD WATER"

From Warren Miller, World Acclaimed Sportsfilm Producer

Get ready for high speed on the high seas in this spectacular sailing film!

"Hot Yachts, Cold Water" is the first in a lineup of breathtaking sports features new to television and produced for exclusive presentation on The Disney Channel by Warren Miller.

Miller ranks among the greatest of sportsfilm makers. For over 30 years he has covered major outdoor sports events throughout the world. His shows have attracted millions of fans, won countless citations, and two Academy Award nominations.

Watch "Hot Yachts, Cold Water" and board the fastest racing yachts on the Pacific coast as they compete in every kind of weather. Sail in the St. Francis Perpetual around-the-buoys regatta, and outdistance the finest fleet of gold-plated yachts ever to knife into windy San Francisco harbor. Hang on as they tack, jibe, crash and bash in the Heavy Weather Slalom! Four cameras, a hundred thousand feet of film and two years were needed to shoot these yachts that cost from a thousand to a million dollars. Miller's cameramen chase them in action as they race, tip over, rip spinnakers and break masts in relentless competition.

Racing yachts ride the sea.

"Hot Yachts, Cold Water" is par for the course for sports-loving Miller, who quit his job as a ski instructor at Squaw Valley in 1950, borrowed $100 and a hand-held movie camera, and set about making a film on skiing that he could road-show. Now, 400 movies later, he's the most prolific sportsfilm producer in the business.

Fourteen of Warren Miller's "sportstaculars" will premiere on The Disney Channel over the next six months. "Have Wind-surfing, Will Travel," a featurette, also appears this month. Then, among other standout films, you'll see "Hooray for Hollywood," an inside view of horse racing at Hollywood Park; "Movement and Motion," precision skiing by a team of Canadian champions; "Colorado Colors," a tour of ghost towns via backpacks and hot air balloons; and "Jimmy Huega," true story of the 1964 Olympic bronze medalist skier who conquered multiple sclerosis to ski again.

You'll enjoy all these and more for the first time, exclusively, on The Disney Channel!

Boy of two worlds.

THE LIGHT IN THE FOREST

(Fess Parker,
Carol Lynley
James MacArthur)

Brave the dangers of the American frontier, where red men and white fought each other for survival.

Johnny Butler (James MacArthur), born white but raised by Delaware Indians, is reunited with his real family. He struggles with his hatred of whites, the unfair treatment he receives from them, and his love for Shenandoah (Carol Lynley), a 16-year-old girl indentured to his aunt.

He finally runs back to his Indian comrades. Only a seasoned scout (Fess Parker), wise in the ways of settlers and Indians, is able to convince Johnny that he must rejoin his own people and seek his future with Shenandoah.

EPISODE II OF THE INSPIRING SERIES ON FRANKLIN'S LIFE BEN FRANKLIN: THE KING'S REBEL

Relive the drama that swept Benjamin Franklin into super-patriotism!

In this second of four 90-minute programs depicting Franklin's remarkable life, Richard Widmark portrays the aging statesman as the colonies' representative to the king in England.

There he is cruelly rebuffed in every attempt at diplomacy. He is told that "a Yankee is not a gentleman," and that Americans will be put in their place. Realizing that his efforts at reconciliation are in vain, Franklin returns to America to fight for independence and a new order for a new nation.

"The King's Rebel" is a blazing chapter in Franklin's brilliant career.

The Waltz King

(Kerwin Mathews, Senta Berger, Brian Aherne)

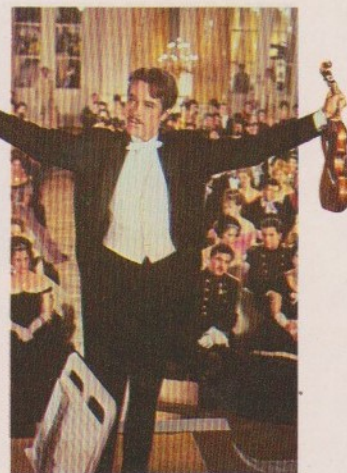

Warm to the romantic music of young Johann Strauss as he vies with his father for the title of "Waltz King."

Twenty-two captivating Strauss melodies performed by the renowned Vienna Symphony Orchestra enrich this dramatization of Johann Jr.'s stormy youthful career.

The story begins in mid-19th century Vienna where Johann the younger, despite the objections of his famous father, is determined to become a composer himself. After much turmoil he succeeds, with the help of a beautiful opera star who becomes his wife.

THE SCHEME OF THINGS

Ever forgotten an old friend's name, where you left your keys, or an important phone number? Find out how your memory works and what goes wrong when you go blank in "How Do We Remember?" on THE SCHEME OF THINGS.

It's just one of the many fascinating topics covered in this series, which focuses on science and the thrill of human discovery.

You'll also visit the "Sound Factory" when a trip backstage at the Disney Studios shows you how movie sound effects are made! It's a surprising eye (and ear) opener. Don't forget to watch! (Turn to page 28 for a related activity.)

Jungle Cat

A burly black jaguar and his spotted mate are the exotic stars of "Jungle Cat."

Enter the Amazon jungle and follow a South American jaguar and his mate, in this True-Life Adventure from Walt Disney's acclaimed Academy Award-winning series!

Survival is the name of the game for all jungle creatures, and the jaguar is prince of predators. In thrilling factual scenes these mighty cats are shown catching and battling prey that includes a boa constrictor, a wild boar and a crocodile.

There are also quieter moments of coexistence with strange and exotic denizens like the giant anteater, capybara, jungle otter, iguana, tapir, sloth and monkeys. The beauty of the jungle is depicted in orchid-filled rain forests with roaring waterfalls.

Three top naturalist-photographers spent over two years in the Amazon basin of Brazil filming this story of its jungle cats in their lush green world.

Mickey Mouse CLUB

Go west this month with Spin and Marty, teenagers beginning an adventurous summer on a boys' ranch.

Tim Considine plays Spin Evans, good-natured leader of the young vacationers. David Stollery portrays Marty Markham, a city boy who hates the great open spaces and makes life miserable for his companions.

This 25-episode serial begins with everybody's arrival at the Triple R Ranch, where Marty antagonizes the rest of the boys by calling it a dirty old farm. Action and excitement take off from there.

Meanwhile back at the Mickey Mouse Club, Mouseketeers keep the fun and music going with guest stars and performers.

Mon.-Fri., 3:30 p.m.

Gunderling king rules underground domain.

THE MOONSTONE GEM

(Puppet Fairy-Tale)

Leave the ordinary world behind for a fantasy trip to the happy underground kingdom of the Gunderlings in this musical fable about a stolen gem with wish-granting powers, a lost map, villainy and magic.

Starring a charming cast of hundreds (puppets that is), "The Moonstone Gem" sparkles with color and a wry, tongue-in-cheek humor adults will enjoy as much as children. A brilliant original score illuminates the action.

August 1, 4, 7, 12, 18, 21, 24, 27

(Robin Williams, Shelley Duvall)

Popeye, Olive Oyl, Wimpy, Swee'pea, Bluto and all their comic strip neighbors come to life in this hilariously offbeat musical movie.

Popeye the sailor man, salty as a mackerel barrel and twice as hard to handle, blows into Sweethaven on the heels of a storm. He's looking for his long-lost dad. Meanwhile he mops up various town bullies, falls for Olive Oyl, adopts an abandoned baby, and fights an undersea battle with Bluto and a giant octopus.

Robin Williams plays the squinty, anvil-armed, pipe-chomping Popeye. Shelley Duvall is his gangly girlfriend. Fifty multi-talented performers round out the cast.

Here's a recipe for summer fun:

Take an accident-prone young Coast Guard ensign, a beautiful young girl, a million dollars worth of stolen jewels, and a mysterious Japanese pearl diver; mix well with the wackiest bunch of sea dogs that ever manned a helm; stir gently against the background of Newport, the world's busiest little harbor; add the wildest sea chase in nautical history; bake slowly in the California sun; and serve up Walt Disney's comedy treat, "The Boatniks!"

Robert Morse is the hapless hero who is rescued

Sing and dance your troubles away with Hayley Mills and a funmaking cast in the carefree ragtime musical, "Summer Magic!"

It's all about the Carey family, faced with a homeless, hungry existence until daughter Nancy (Hayley Mills) wangles Osh Popham (Burl Ives) into letting them occupy an empty house.

The place isn't for rent, but they have it free—until the absentee owner shows up. What follows is a gleeful scramble of song, dance, pandemonium and romance.

MICKEY'S Just for Kids SECTION

Ahoy there!

Ready for some cool fun? Set sail with THE DISNEY CHANNEL and JUST FOR KIDS, your own special section of THE DISNEY CHANNEL MAGAZINE!

This month on THE DISNEY CHANNEL, you'll dive in a submarine miles beneath the ocean waves on "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" and soar to the clouds with "Jonathan Livingston Seagull!" Then, man the laughboats for chuckles with "The Boatniks."

JUST FOR KIDS is shipshape too, with games, activities and puzzles galore. Make signal flags and learn to send messages with them. Build a fleet of paper boats, test your sports-safety knowledge and lots more.

It's anchors aweigh for August adventures! Welcome aboard!

Your Pal,

MICKEY MOUSE

Donald's CHANNEL CHATTER

Oh boy, oh boy, oh boy! Keep those letters coming! I'm having as much fun as a duck in a rainstorm! Speaking of water, August is when we all spend lots of time at the beach, the lake or by the pool. This month watch exciting on-the-water adventures like "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" and "The Boatniks" too!

Send me a drawing or letter about your favorite place to swim, or your favorite water sport. (Or tell me about where you spent your vacation this summer).

ANSWER TO PAGE 23: Watch the Boatniks

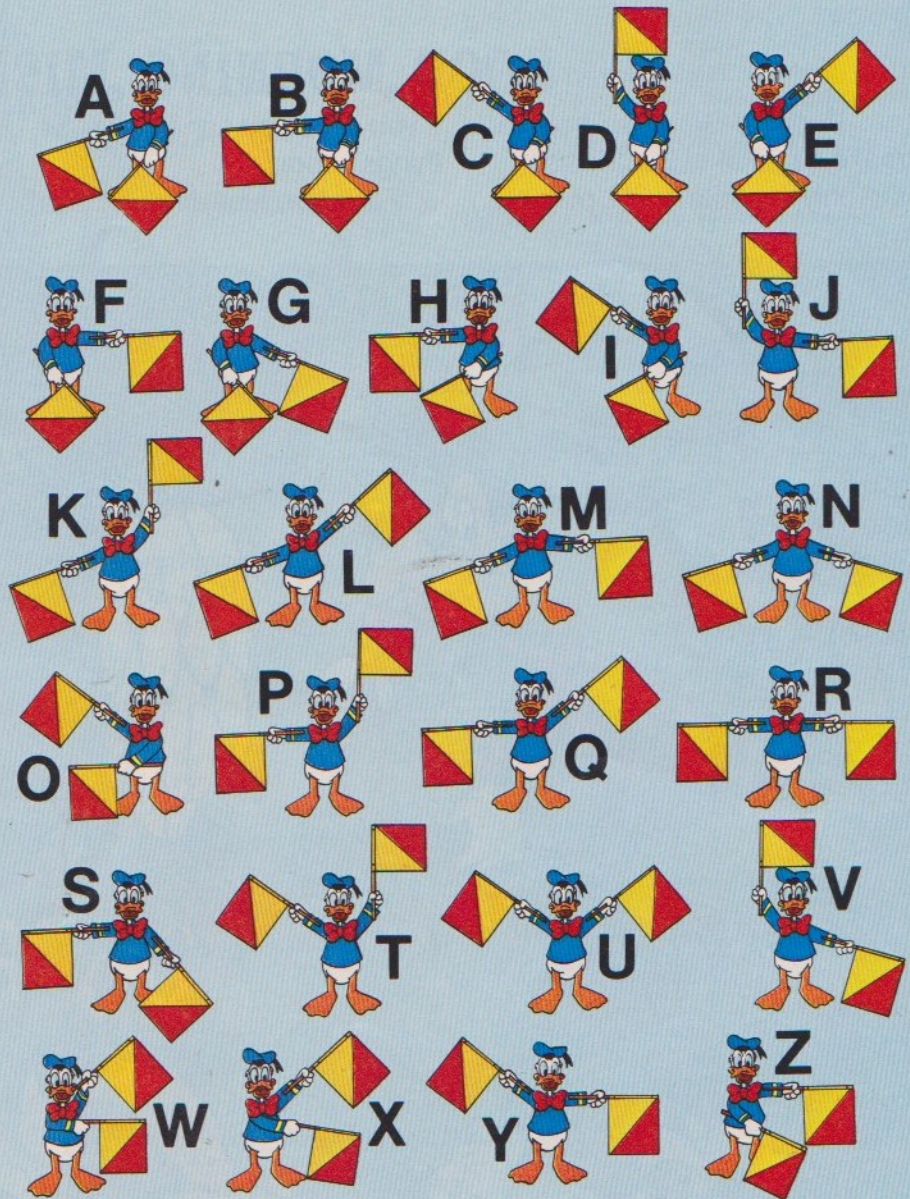

Just for Kids

THE BOATNIKS SECRET SHIP TALK!

Sailors often use flags called "semaphores" to signal each other at a distance. Now you and your friends can speak to each other without saying a word, using the signal alphabet. To make your own flags you'll need:

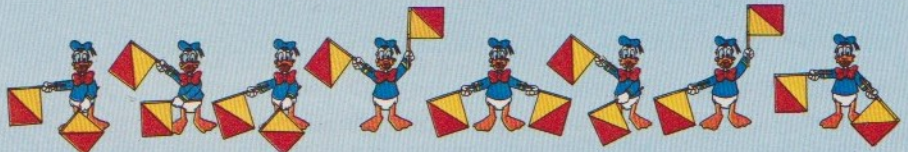

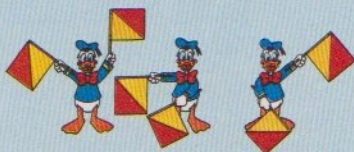

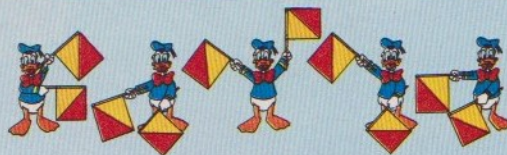

- 1 Large square each of red and yellow construction paper.
- 2 long, narrow dowels (smooth, rounded sticks found in hardware stores) or 2 straight, smooth sticks.
- Tape, scissors and glue.

- 1) Fold the red paper into a triangle. Open and cut along fold line.
- 2) Glue red triangles to the yellow squares so the flags look like those below.
- 3) Fold one edge of each yellow square over a dowel (or stick) and tape in place. You're ready to signal!

CAN YOU DECIPHER WHAT DONALD IS SAYING?

(ANSWER ON PAGE 22)

Just for Kids

GOOD MORNING, MICKEY!

Poor old Goofy is about to make a mistake! But that isn't the only mistake in this picture.

If you look, you can find twelve things wrong.

For more fun with the "Goof"

and his cartoon pals, watch GOOD MORNING, MICKEY! every morning.

ANSWERS—
 OOPS! Goofy is sawing the limb he is sitting on; the bird is upside down; the birdhouse has no bottom in it; the bird perch is above hole; the dog has three legs; the dog wears a saddle; the cat has rabbit ears; there are three kinds of fruit on the same tree; the swing hangs by one rope; the flowers grow upside down; the squirrel swings by his tail; the G in "Goofy" is backward.

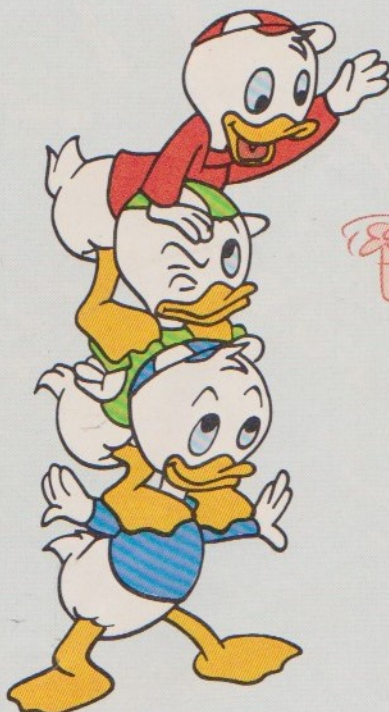

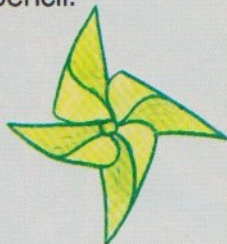

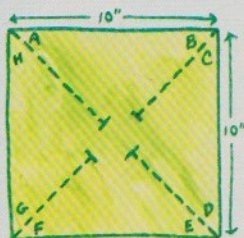

Just for Kids

20,000 Leagues UNDER THE Sea

In "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," Captain Nemo has invented many unusual machines and vehicles. You can create some too—out of paper! All you need is last night's newspaper, scissors, tape and a straight pin!

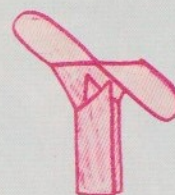

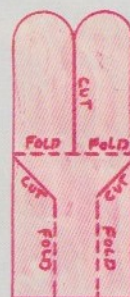

PINWHEELS:

Cut a 10" square of heavy paper. Draw lines as shown. Cut halfway down each line. Fold points B, D, F, and H to center and stick a pin through all of the points and into a stick or pencil.

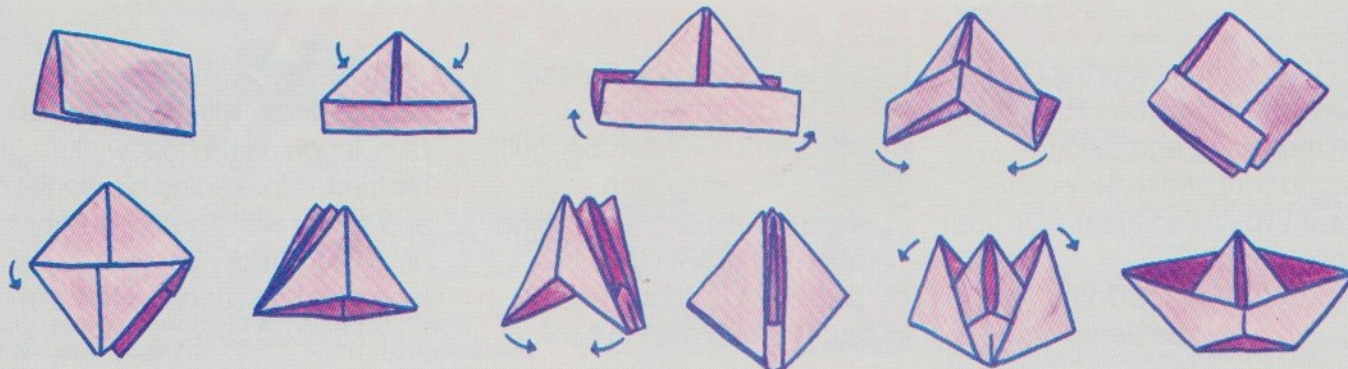

WHIRLIGIGS:

Cut this shape out of a piece of lightweight paper (typing paper works well). Cut and fold back the two bottom sections. Tape together. Cut top portion to fold line; bend one flap back and one flap forward (as shown). Hold it above your head and drop to see it whirl downward.

PAPER BOATS

- 1) Use one sheet of folded newspaper, or fold a piece of 8½ x 11 typing paper in half.
- 2) Fold corners down.
- 3) Fold edges up.
- 4) Bring edges together.
- 5) And flatten, sideways.
- 6) Turn the corners up on one side. Then the other side.
- 7) Bring edges together.
- 8) Flatten sideways.
- 9) Now pull the top corners down and out, gently. There's your boat! Make several and have a race!

Just for Kids

Watch "The Light in the Forest" (August 1, 5, 7, 11, 13, 16, 20, 24, 28, 30). Then help Goofy find his way from the white settlement to the Delaware Indian camp.

SUMMER READING TREATS!

Watch these thrilling Disney Channel films, then stretch out in the shade and read the wonderful books they came from! You'll find them all in your local library.
 "20,000 Leagues Under The Sea,"
 Jules Verne

"The Light In The Forest,"
 Conrad Richter
 "Jonathan Livingston Seagull,"
 Richard Bach
 Visit Tom Sawyer's "stomping ground" on WISH UPON A STAR this month, then read Mark Twain's exciting book,

"Tom Sawyer." You'll love playing pirate with Tom and his pals, laugh as he hoodwinks his friends into doing his work, and shiver with spooky delight as he and Becky come face to face with Injun Joe while lost in a mysterious cave.

coming up on the next 5 pages!
GET INVOLVED with The Disney Channel programs!

Sight...and...Sound

Our perceptions can fool us! Two programs on The Disney Channel this month deal with vision and hearing, and how they often play tricks on us. In "The Mind's Eye: A Learning Experience" on DISNEY STUDIO SHOWCASE (Aug. 25, 27, 28, 30), you'll learn what researchers are discovering about visual perception and how it affects learning. In "Sound Factory" on THE SCHEME OF THINGS (Aug. 2, 19, 31), you'll visit a Disney studio sound effects stage to see what you really hear on the movie screen.

Test your perceptions with the activities below, then watch THE SCHEME OF THINGS and DISNEY STUDIO SHOWCASE to see how sharp your senses really are!

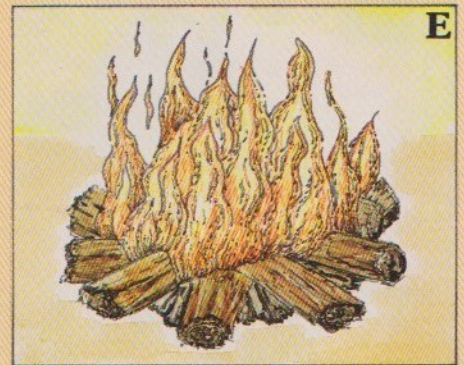

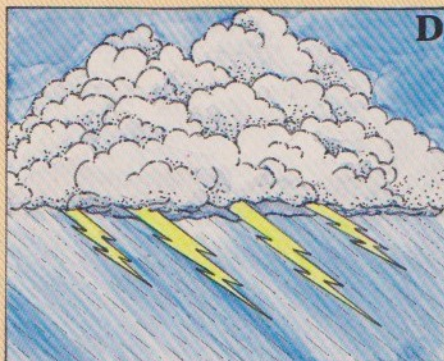

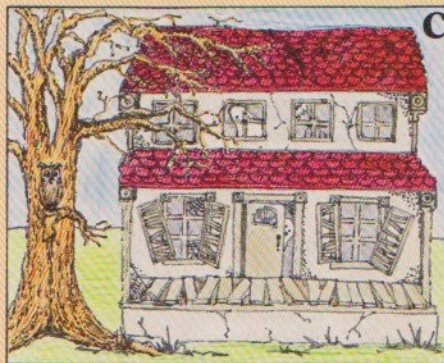

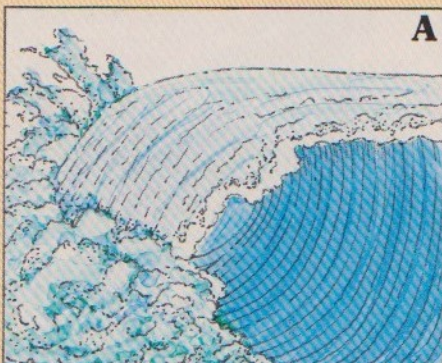

MYSTERY SOUNDS!

Match the pictures with the appropriate sound effects. Check your answers by tuning in to THE SCHEME OF THINGS. Aug. 2, 19, 31.

SOUND EFFECTS (AND HOW THEY'RE MADE)

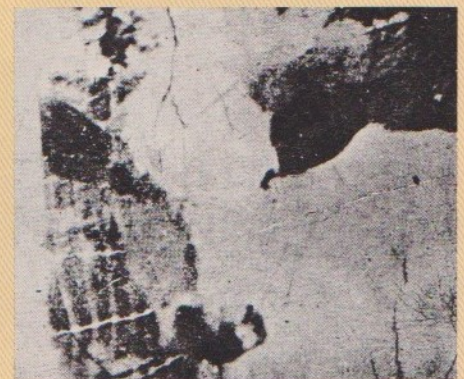

1. Strings drawn across a turning wooden bar. ____
2. Cylindrical drum filled with nails and dried peas. ____
3. Bundle of dried reeds twisted and rubbed together. ____
4. Inflated balloon filled with BB's and rolled or shaken. ____
5. Large sheet of tin rattled vigorously. ____
6. Coffee cans covered with animal hides and suspended from a turning crank by vibrating strings. ____
7. Person making noises through the top of a glass kerosene lantern. ____

SOUNDS YOU'LL HEAR

No, we didn't goof! There are two effects described which don't match any of the pictures! What sounds do they simulate? Make a guess, then see (and hear) for yourself on THE SCHEME OF THINGS.

MYSTERY PICTURE!

What do you think you see in this photo? The surprise is revealed only on DISNEY STUDIO SHOWCASE.

Exploring The Archives

Dave Smith, archivist for Walt Disney Productions, answers questions and provides information about the studio's history and its productions.

Why did Walt Disney never make a sequel to "Fantasia?"—H. C., South Orange, N.J.

"Fantasia" was considered to be ahead of its time and took years to break even at the box office. However, Disney used the same format as "Fantasia" for "Make Mine Music" (see page 10), but with popular instead of classical music.

A heron is silhouetted against everglade mist in this moody rendering for "Blue Bayou."

Did you know there was a segment prepared for "Fantasia" which never made it into the final film? The segment was produced to go with Debussy's Clair de Lune. Disney finally decided the piece did not fit, so the animation was shelved. But when "Make Mine Music" was in production a few years later, the animation was brought out again and used with the song Blue Bayou instead of Clair de Lune.

Vintage black and white Mickey Mouse cartoons shown occasionally on GOOD MORNING, MICKEY! bring back fond memories of my childhood. When was the switch made to color?—J. H., San Francisco, Calif.

The first Mickey Mouse cartoon in color was "The Band Concert" in 1935. In all, there were 118 cartoons starring the Mouse, and 74 of those were black and white.

Mickey's musicians blow up a storm in "The Band Concert."

DISNEY TRIVIA FOR AUGUST...

...Walt Disney was dissatisfied with the original giant squid fight in "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" (see page 5), which had been filmed on a calm sea at sunset. So, at great expense, the entire scene was reshot as if it was on a stormy night. The new version worked much better.

...Carol Lynley made her movie debut and James MacArthur made his Disney debut in "The Light in the Forest" (see page 11).

...Walt Disney was born in Chicago, but spent many of his childhood years on a small farm in Marceline, Missouri. It was there that he gained a love for animals and the rural life which is so evident in his films.

...Uncle Scrooge first appeared in a 1947 Donald Duck comic book. Donald's debut was in a Silly Symphony film. Can you name it?*

Recognize a wise quacker in this country scene?

COOL SUMMER SIPPIN' FROM EPCOT MAGAZINE

(August 1-5.)

EPCOT Magazine's "Three-Minute Gourmet" Frank Berry shares his favorite recipes for poolside and picnics. Watch EPCOT Magazine for lots of other great barbecue ideas from Frank!

SONG OF THE SOUTH KABOBS

1 lb chicken (cut into pieces)
Fresh pineapple chunks
Fresh sweet potatoes, cubed and wrapped in bacon

Alternate chicken, pineapple and sweet potatoes on skewers. Baste with sauce made of 2 tablespoons of butter and ¼ cup of maple syrup. Grill over hot coals. Serves 2.

MICKEY MOUSE KNOCK-OUT PUNCH

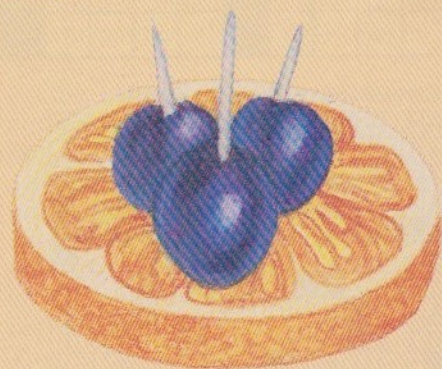

1 6 oz. can frozen orange juice concentrate
1 6 oz. can frozen lemonade concentrate
1 6 oz. can frozen limeade concentrate
4 cups cold water
1 large bottle ginger ale (3½-4 cups) chilled

Combine all ingredients except ginger ale. Pour over ice block in punch bowl. Add ginger ale just before serving. Makes 12-15 servings.

MICKEY MOUSE FLOATS

(for decoration...the kids can do these)

Take 3 black grapes and put them together with 3 toothpicks to form Mickey's head. Stick on to orange slice... and POW!

TIP Always use an ice block, so as not to dilute the drink. To make this, you can remove the separators in your ice cube tray and make a block!
